Later—Another telegram saying that the crisis had passed and that Stanley was able to sit up.

OBITUARY

Died Jan. 1, 1911, at his home on Long Branch one mile east of town, James Edward Cottle, aged twenty nine years, ten months and nineteen days.

Deceased was the son of Alexander and Nancy Cottle, his mother having predeceased him to the great beyond several years ago. He leaves a wife and two small children, father, three brothers, three sisters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

Jim Ed contracted rheumatism early in life and for several years was practically helpless. He finally recovered from this disease but it left him in such a weakened condition that he fell an easy prey to consumption. His family and friends had realized for some years that he couldn't get well but he remained hopeful to the end, was frequently planning what he was going to do when he got well. He was an affectionate husband, a loving tender parent, and of a sunny disposition generally, had few if any enemies and his friends were numbered by those who knew him. He had never united with any church but told his friends on his death bed that he was not afraid to die, that all was well with him.

Everything was done to alleviate his suffering that loving and kind neighbors could do, and his family and relatives desire to thank the good people for their kindness toward him during his last illness.

To the little boys, when they were old enough to realize what they have lost, we would commend their father's example.

Alex Cottle.
